PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION HAS SIGNIFICANCE

Defeat of Joe Grundy Brings No Mourning From Leaders in Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Capital politicians seeking to analyze Pennsylvania's spectacular primary with relation to its possible bearing on other political contests in this campaign year viewed the results today with mixed emotions.

There was no mourning at the White House because of the defeat of "Uncle Joe" Grundy, the arch-priest of high tariff protection, whose short service in the senate has been featured by his open hostility to president Hoover. It had even been reported in Washington before the primary that if Grundy won he would become the spear-head of the anti-Hoover drive in the next Republican convention two years hence.

The mourning, if any, was being done by the Democrats.

Since "Uncle Joe" startled the country with his contemptuous references to "backward states" and his insistence upon tariff walls higher than even those contained in the present tariff bill, the Democrats have rejoiced in the issue of "Grundysm." The term had become symbolic of their whole effort in the present campaign and they are loath to lose the issue.

Senator T. H. Caraway, the caustic wit on the Democratic side, summed up the Democratic attitude with this pithy comment:

"The defeat of Grundy was unfortunate for the Democratic party because he was such a splendid issue."

The Republicans generally breathed easier, for they had not looked forward with any particular joy to meeting this issue of "Grundysm" being megaphoned from a thousand political stumps between now and November. "Uncle Joe" is personally very popular with his colleagues; politically they admit he constituted a liability.

From the standpoint of the highly-important prohibition issue, the results in Pennsylvania received varying interpretations.

The dries, of course, hailed the outcome as a "great victory" for Gifford Pinchot, a bone-dry won the governorship, and Davis assured a Methodist group on the eve of the voting that he was "a sincere dry" after completely ignoring the issue in his campaign.

Yet the wets were not entirely dissatisfied with the results. In fact, upon analysis, they found much with which to be satisfied. They pointed to the fact that, without organization and without issue other than the single issue of prohibition, the wet ticket of Bohlen-and-Phillips polled more than a quarter of a million votes against the highly organized machines in Pennsylvania that supported Davis.

OHIO AUDITOR SCORES POOR MANAGEMENT

Tracy Charges Illegal Payments of City Cash In Barnesville, Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—Claims that illegal payments totaling $17,460.87 were made from the Barnesville village treasury, that street improvements in the village were made in a "haphazard and irregular manner" and that various amounts, aggregating $5,032.20, had been improperly disposed of are contained in a report which was made public today by State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy, dealing with an examination of the records of that village.

The report deals with an examination made by State Examiner Walter C. Jones of the Barnesville records for the period from October 1, 1925, to November 29, 1929.

NAMES ITEMS

The alleged illegal payments include:

To the Federal Asphalt Paving Company, of Hamilton, $8,278.02 for paving Central Main street. Directing attention to the law deprecating that such contracts are illegal unless the money with which to pay for such work is on hand or is in process of collection, Examiner Jones declared that notes and bonds were issued by the village and no money was collected on them until 14 months after the contract was awarded.

Asserting that the law requiring competitive bidding was disregarded, Jones held the following payments from the village treasury illegal: To the Marble Cliff Quarries Company, Columbus, for stone, $1,284.30; to The Standard Brick Company, Cincinnati, for slag, $5,876.19; to The Arrow Sand and Gravel company, Columbus, for gravel, $721.50; to T. and A. Rogers company, Barnesville, for sewer pipe, $563.20.

The report, also, claimed that $495 was illegally paid to The Michael Chevrolet Company for a truck for the street department January 31, 1928, because the old truck, valued at $161, was traded in on the new truck, contrary to law.

Because George W. Michael was a village councilman, in 1925, while proprietor of the Central garage, the report held that $92.66 was illegally paid to this garage by the village for purchase of gas and oil and for repairs. Because he did not submit itemized expense accounts, Jones claimed J. H. Price was illegally paid $50 for "time and expense" on trips to Columbus and St. Clairsville.

CITES PAVING

Referring to the Main street paving contract, the report declared that "the haphazard and irregular manner" of providing for street improvement such as this not only "places in jeopardy the interests of the village and endangers the collection of special assessments, but also, makes the officials personally liable for the payment of such illegal contracts should any disgruntled taxpayer enjoin the payment through the public funds."

Claiming an error had been made, the report declared that $4,014.23 should be transferred from the village general sinking fund to the special assessment sinking fund.

HUMBLY AND FERVENTLY
Humbly and fervently, bow we before Thee,
God of Humanity; great is thy care,
All whom thy spirit guides, truly adore thee:
Hear Thou and answer our Pentecost prayer.

Come as a sacred wind, mighty and rushing
Into our hearts; for we dream of release.
Come, Oh Thou Holy Ghost, blessing and hushing
All of our spirits in infinite peace.

Then may Thy gracious love clearly speak through us,
Breathe through each human heart where Thou dost dwell.
Make us Thine image, Lord: shape us and mould us
Into Thy likeness, our darkness dispel.

Four out Thy Spirit, God, give us thy vision Righteousness spread abroad through all the earth!
Lift our souls unto Thee. Seal our decision:
We would but further Thy spirit's rebirth.

Then shall we steadfastly walk with Thee, breaking Bread of Thy holy love, shared with all men;
Praying that from this night, earth may be waking,
Pentecost Spirit, Oh, come Thou again!

—Gertrude Wherry Robinson.

FIRE MARSHAL MAKES SECOND BLAZE PROBE

Gill Has Hope of Apprehending Convicts Who Planned Huge Delivery.

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—International News Service today learned exclusively that State Fire Marshal Raymond Gill has quietly made a second investigation into the tragic Ohio State Penitentiary fire and that his report may fix the responsibility of the conflagration on a group of convicts.

"There is no doubt," Gill declared, "that the blaze was of incendiary origin and our department hopes to apprehend the convicts who set the prison on fire."

The state fire chief, it was learned, has been at the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield and the London prison farm to question convicts who were in G and H cellblock, where 320 prisoners perished when the fire started.

PLANNED DELIVERY

Gill's deputies have also dug into the report of wholesale prison delivery plots which reached the outside of the prison by way of the intangible "grapevine telegraph," during the last four months.

The second report will probably be delivered to Governor Myers Y. Cooper early next week, Gill said.

The state official, it was reported, is working on the theory that the blaze was the result of an escape plot.

Immediately after the fire, Governor Cooper appointed an investigating commission which was headed by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman. The commission declared that the fire was due to defective wiring.

Gill, in his report to the governor, declared that the fire was of incendiary origin, but it occasioned no excitement at the time.

LIGHTS ON

When questioned today, Gill declared that the fire could not have started from a short circuit because all of the lights in the cellblock were burning when the fire first started. If there had been defective wiring or a short circuit, all of the lights would not have been burning, he said.

The fire marshal's one idea in making the second investigation is to gather enough evidence on which to base criminal charges, which will be filed if he succeeds in cornering the convicts who are responsible.

Bertha S. Jones was named administratrix of the estate of Frank Jones, late of Wayne-twp in probate court Thursday.

FERNANDO DE NORONHA, Brazil, May 22 — Majestically sweeping into the home-stretch of its latest flight across the Atlantic ocean, the giant German Dirigible Graf Zeppelin was sighted from this island at 1:30 p. m. today (12:30 p. m. eastern standard time).

SIDES GLEAM

Its silver sides gleaming, the aerial liner was "spotted" by a lookout on the northernmost tip of the island, who immediately passed the word along that the Graf was near to completion of its long flight across the ocean. The dirigible was traveling swiftly, and at the time it was sighted had only a little more than 175 miles to travel before reaching Pernambuco, first stop this side of the Atlantic.

Virtually the entire population of Fernando De Noronha had turned out to experience the thrill of seeing the first dirigible ever to pierce the sub-equatorial skies.

When it was sighted, the Graf was making a bee-line for Pernambuco. The airship appeared none the worse for the severe equatorial rain-squall it had passed through during the early hours of this morning.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, IN-AT SEA, May 22.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, which had crossed the equator, had reached Pernambuco, first stop this side of the Atlantic, when it pushed its great bulk across the Equator, mythical "Belt of the World," at 8:38 a. m. ship's time (7:38 a. m. eastern daylight saving time).

It was the first time in history that a lighter than air craft had ever crossed the Equator. As the huge dirigible swept into the southern seas, a cheer of triumph went up from the throats of the thrilled passengers.

Even the most travel-wise among the nineteen passengers aboard the silver craft felt an undeniable thrill when the word came through from Dr. Hugo Eckener's control room that the ship was over the invisible line, traced through continents and seas, that divides the north of the world from the south.

Coolly Awaken Youths, All Under 15, and March Them From Building.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 22.—Displaying coolness, 26 nuns roused 190 sleeping boys at St. Aemilia's orphan asylum and removed them to safety early today as flames completely destroyed the structure, valued at $350,000.

The nuns and their wards were asleep on the first and second floors when the smoke and flames awakened them between 1 and 2 a. m. The boys were lined up and marched from the blazing building without a single known casualty.

As the last ones were hustled into the outdoors the roof began to collapse and within a few minutes the structure was a mass of flaming wreckage.

All the boys were under 15 years of age.

FERNANDO DE NORONHA, Brazil, May 22.—Majestically sweeping into the home-stretch of its latest flight across the Atlantic ocean, the giant German Dirigible Graf Zeppelin was sighted from this island at 1:30 p. m. today (12:30 p. m. eastern standard time).

From the early hours of the morning a constant watch had been kept out for the huge dirigible, which had crossed the equator shortly before 9 o'clock this morning local time.

SIDES GLEAM

Its silver sides gleaming, the aerial liner was "spotted" by a lookout on the northern most tip of the island, who immediately passed the word along that the Graf was near to completion of its long flight across the ocean. The dirigible was traveling swiftly, and at the time it was sighted, had only a little more than 175 miles to travel before reaching Pernambuco, first stop this side of the Atlantic.

Virtually the entire population of Fernando De Noronha had turned out to experience the thrill of seeing the first dirigible ever to pierce the sub-equatorial skies.

When it was sighted, the Graf was making a bee-line for Pernambuco. The airship appeared none the worse for the severe equatorial rain-squall it had passed through during the early hours of this morning.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN
IN AT SEA, May 22.—The giant Dirigible Graf Zeppelin, travel hardened monarch of the air, made aeronautic history this morning when it pushed its great bulk across the Equator, mythical "belt of the world," at 8:38 a. m. ship's time (7:38 a. m. eastern daylight saving time).

It was the first time in history that a lighter than air craft had ever crossed the Equator. As the huge dirigible swept into the southern seas, a cheer of triumph went up from the throats of the thrilled passengers.

Even the most travel-wise among the nineteen passengers aboard the silver craft felt an undeniable thrill when the word came through from Dr. Hugo Eckener's control room that the ship was over the invisible line, traced through continents and seas, that divides the north of the world from the south.

COUNCIL O. K.'S COURT PAVING

Service Director Authorized to Enter Into Contract With Commissioners.

City council met in a short session Wednesday evening with the principal business being the announcement of E. S. Neuding, chairman of the finance committee, that the city had conferred with the county commissioners and the state engineer concerning the paving of S. Court-st from the N. and W. railway tracks to the city corporation limits.

A resolution authorizing Service Director L. E. Miller to contract with the county commissioners for the work was read and adopted.

Bonds will be issued for the city's share of the work and under the present arrangement, according to County Auditor Bryce Briggs, the county is to float the city's bonds. He does not think this fair inasmuch as he says, the county does not have to sell bonds for their share of the work.

FARMERS SHOULD INSURE HOG CROP

Most Economic Returns Being Found In Good Corn, Says Farm Report.

Hogs have been yielding the most economic returns on good corn. In fact the corn and hog ration has been decidedly in favor of the farmer who is efficiently translating his grain through the pork route. The spring pig crop has now reached the place where insurance against losses from parasite and disease is most essential, if this spring pig crop is to be grown into thrifty shoats which may be finished for the fall market.

Clean pastures and clean equipment are the most practical means of controlling parasites.

Since Pickaway County farmers experienced such heavy losses last year, through hog cholera, the worst enemy with which the feeder and breeder has to contend, it is doubly important that steps toward prevention of this disease be taken now.

The immunization through the proper administration of hog cholera virus and serum is the only known and proven protection against hog cholera outbreaks. The services of a competent veterinarian in the administration of this treatment will serve you profitably, as insurance against the ravages of hog cholera in your pig crop.

Call your veterinarian, treat your pigs and assure them a safe journey to market and insure yourself profitable and economic returns.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore.

Now, the amateur Home Decorator can have the PROFESSIONAL TOUCH

PUBLIC BUILDING PROGRAM BEING SPED BY TREASURY

WASHINGTON—All efforts are being exerted by the treasury department to speed by the public building program and while more than $40,000,000 worth of work is under contract, it will be the first of the year before the construction program is moving ahead at top speed, it was learned today.

By mid-summer it was expected that congress would have enacted a bill authorizing beginning of work on about 200 new projects which are now under consideration before the house appropriations committee.

Assistant Secretary Perry K. Heath explained that after the apportionment will be made for sites, with certain areas, select the appropriations, are made available best sites, proceed to acquire ownership and title, through the justice department; then prepare the plans and let contracts for construction.

The law provides that no work may be started on plans and specifications until the sites are actually owned by the government.

"By the end of the year approximately $80,000,000 worth of work will be under contract," Heath said. "That will be twice as much as at the beginning of the year and the largest amount that has ever been undertaken at one time by the government. Building probably will proceed on that extensive plan for two or three years."

Heath said he planned to make a number of trips throughout the country during the coming summer to lookover sites and, to study building requirements, preparatory to submission of projects to the December congress. He will leave soon for the middle-west with his main inspection stops at Kansas City and Fort Worth, Texas, stopping at New Orleans on the return to Washington. Heath will visit a number of in-between stops which have not so far been designated.

Probably hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved to the government due to the prompt construction of many of the federal building throughout the country. This is particularly true of the Commerce department structure to be one of the largest government buildings in the world. The contractor is well ahead of schedule and the center section will be available for occupancy by December, according to the present prospects. Other sections of the building will be ready by July, 1931. This building is being constructed of Indiana limestone.

TIRE MAN EXPLAINS FISK CONSTRUCTION

Automobile owners of this vicinity will have the opportunity of learning how Fisk Air-Flight Principle tires are constructed, thru a demonstration that has been arranged at the salesrooms of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Shop tomorrow.

By courtesy of the Fisk factory, services of Mr. Smith, special factory representative, have been secured to give interested motorists a detailed picture of feature that result in long service and riding comfort of modern day automobile tires. It is planned to show in detail construction secrets that have not before been generally known.

In commenting on the proposed demonstration, Mr. Gordon, proprietor of Gordon Tire and Accessory Shop, brought out the fact that manufacturers to keep pace with public demand for fast travel and comfortable riding, have been compelled to make radical changes in tire construction. He cited as an example the development of the balloon type tire from the old high pressure type and stated that the new Fisk Air-Flight Principle of tire construction incorporates features that meet every demand of modern day motoring.

The demonstration, scheduled to start in the morning and continue through the day, is open to the general public.

Thirty years ago, the National Jewish Hospital began its beneficial work of caring for poverty-stricken sufferers of tuberculosis on a national scale. It was the first institution of its kind in America. Its pioneering work started the intensive fight against tuberculosis, which has resulted in a decrease in the death rate from this disease to a figure that is less than half it was before the National Jewish Hospital entered the field.

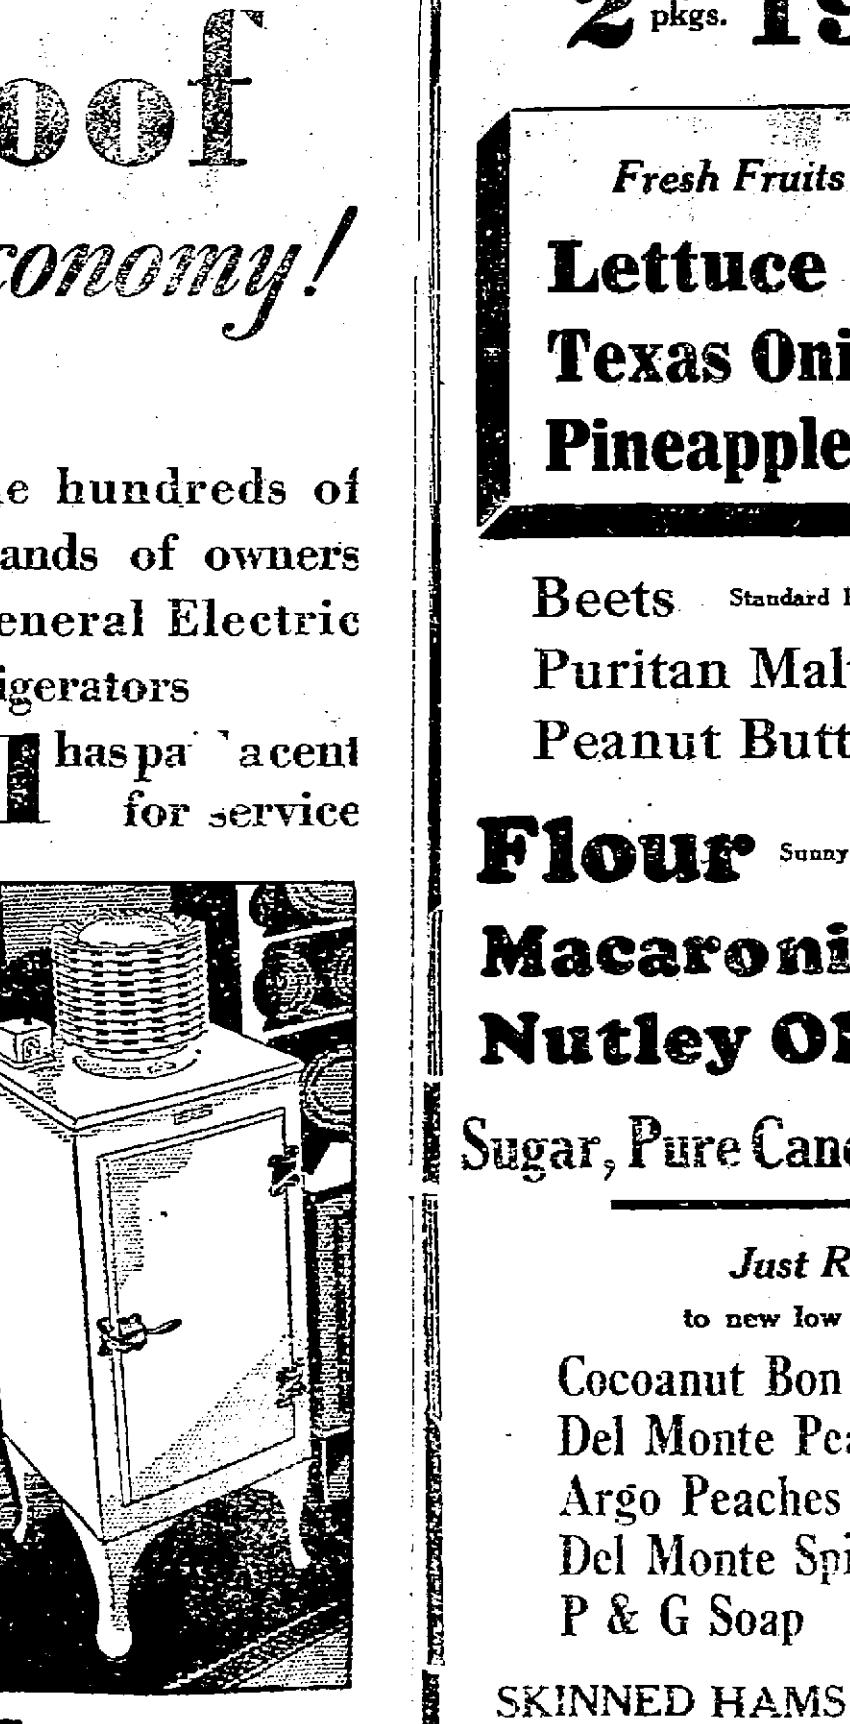

With its motto, "None may enter who can pay, none can pay who enter," the National Jewish Hospital has restored hundreds upon hundreds of men, women and children to health, strength and economic independence. STATE GOVERNMENT EXPENSES INCREASE NEARLY 6 MILLION

COLUMBUS, O., May 22—Figures supporting the assertion that state governmental operating expenses increased $1,740,537.52 last year, compared with 1928, are contained in the annual report of State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy which was made public today. The report gives statistics for the fiscal year ending December 31, last.

It declared that expenditures from the state's general revenue funds last year aggregated $32,681,932.67, as compared to $27,941,395.15 for the preceding year. Tracy pointed out that these figures exclude highway construction and maintenance costs which, last year, totaled $24,726,148.

Tracy stated that disbursements last year by the state government for all purposes amounted to $82,759,564.33. These figures include expenditures for highways and payments from other special funds.

"The increasing demands for public service in all governmental lines entail an ever-increasing burden on the taxpayers," declared Tracy, referring to the boost in governmental expenses.

The remaining $7,500,000 of world war compensation bonds constitutes the state's only bonded debt. These bonds will be fully cancelled by October, 1932, Tracy said. The total debt of the various political subdivisions, however, aggregate $954,149,652, as follows: Cities, $464,015,242; schools, $233,875,685; counties, $169,566,123; villages, $81,215,714; and townships, $5,476,888.

Ordinary current expenses of the state government increased $25,511,207.12, last year, as against $21,285,801.07 the preceding year, according to Tracy's report.

The so-called "weak" school districts, in rural counties, received $4,317,124.14 last year as against $3,000,000 in 1928.

The cost of operating the administrative offices of state government last year totaled $1,166,325.14 compared with $958,050.57 in 1928, Tracy reported.

Relief from Cures of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Relax-O-Der has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing a dose.

Another Young Wife Comes Out of the Kitchen

—HUBBY HAPPY—EVERY EVENING MEAL NOW A DINNER PARTY

This is the true story of a chapter in the life of a prominent young couple whom perhaps you know, but who shall here be designated simply as Mary and Bob.

There was a time when the evening home-coming greeting was always exchanged in the kitchen, where Mary was usually found considerably hot and bothered, as much in a stew as the meats and vegetables she was preparing.

Then—the transformation, and now every evening it is a fresh and shining Mary who greets Bob in the doorway.

Know the answer? A servant in the kitchen? Yes, but not the kind of servant you perhaps suppose. Simply a new gas range, and meals that cook themselves—in the oven.

Unless you have recently considered the matter of new cooking equipment for your home, you probably don't realize what tremendous advances have been made in gas range design—how antiquated your old range really is.

We would welcome the opportunity, then, to show you how cookery has been simplified by the many time-saving, labor-saving, money-saving features of Estate Gas Ranges.

It is perfectly practical now to place an entire meal in the oven, go away and leave it until dinner-time, and—without further care or attention—be assured of a perfectly prepared dinner; everything cooked just right and right on time.

And no more baking failures! For the oven of the Estate Gas Range is practically infallible—an oven in which it is no trick at all to turn out cakes, pies, biscuits as perfect in color, shape and texture as the beautiful color pictures in the magazines.

Absolute uniformity of oven heat is the reason. There is no "hot spots" in the Estate Fresh Air Oven. Built with a double wall all around, on the same principle as a double boiler, it heats evenly on all sides, top and bottom.

Hence, no more strawtasting, no more pan shifting. Baking, no matter where it is placed in the oven, comes out evenly baked and browned. "Luck" is eliminated—perfect results, every time, are assured.

Of course, there are other reasons why the new Estate Gas Range is a joy to the heart of a housewife. Beautiful to look at and so easy to keep clean in its glistening all-enamelled finish—white and French gray, or ivory with smart color trim; equipped with the ThermEstate Oven Heat Control and a cooking chart which takes all the guess out of cookery; concealed piping, new T-type gas cocks and a dozen other modern features.

Let us show you the new Estates and explain their many fine features. No obligation to purchase, of course.

PUBLIC BUILDING PROGRAM BEING SPED BY TREASURY

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

WASHINGTON—All efforts are being exerted by the treasury department to speed by the public building program and while more than $40,000,000 worth of work is under contract, it will be the first of the year before the construction program is moving ahead at top speed, it was learned today.

By mid-summer it was expected that congress would have enacted a bill authorizing beginning of work on about 200 new projects which are now under consideration before the house appropriations committee.

Assistant Secretary Ferry K. Heath explained that after the treasury will advertise for sites, with certain areas, select the propriations are made available best sites, proceed to acquire ownership and title, through the justice department; then prepare the plans and let contracts for construction.

The law provides that no work may be started on plans and specifications until the sites are actually owned by the government.

"By the end of the year approximately $80,000,000 work of work will be under contract," Heath said. "That will be twice as much as at the beginning of the year and the largest amount that has ever been undertaken at one time by the government. Building probably will proceed on that extensive plane for two or three years."

Heath said he planned to make a number of trips throughout the country during the coming summer to lookover sites and to study building requirements, preparatory to submission of projects to the December congress. He will leave soon for the middle-west with his main inspection stops at Kansas City and Fort Worth, Texas, stopping at New Orleans on the return to Washington. Heath will visit a number of in-between stops which have not so far been designated.

Probably hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved to the government due to the prompt construction of many of the federal building throughout the country. This is particularly true of the Commerce department structure to be one of the largest government buildings in the world. The contractor is well ahead of schedule and the center section will be available for occupancy by December, according to the present prospects. Other sections of the building will be ready by July, 1931. This building is being constructed of Indiana limestone.

TIRE MAN EXPLAINS FISK CONSTRUCTION

Automobile owners of this vicinity will have the opportunity of learning how Fisk Air-Flight Principle tires are constructed, through a demonstration that has been arranged at the salesrooms of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Shop tomorrow.

By courtesy of the Fisk factory, services of Mr. Smith, special factory representative, have been secured to give interested motorists a detailed picture of feature that result in long service and riding comfort of modern day automobile tires. It is planned to show in detail construction secrets that have not before been generally known.

In commenting on the proposed demonstration, Mr. Gordon, proprietor of Gordon Tire and Accessory Shop, brought out the fact that manufacturers to keep pace with public demand for fast travel and comfortable riding, have been compelled to make radical changes in tire construction. He cited as an example the development of the balloon type tire from the old high pressure type and stated that the new Fisk Air-Flight Principle of tire construction incorporates features that meet every demand of modern day motoring.

The demonstration, scheduled to start in the morning and continue through the day, is open to the general public.

Little Jackie, aged 8, is being treated for tuberculosis of the spine at the National Jewish Hospital at Denver, Colorado. The work of this institution is free, national, and non-sectarian. A nation-wide campaign for special support for its tuberculosis work will be held during "NJH Week," May 18-24.

Little messengers of friendship and health will be distributed in our city during the week of May 18 to 24. They are "NJH Bonds." They are a greeting from three hundred and twenty-five patients of the National Jewish Hospital at Denver. Their purchase by the philanthropic people of this city will mean renewed strength for the patients of this hospital, and renewed hope for the applicants on the waiting list of the institution.

Thirty years ago, the National Jewish Hospital began its beneficial work of caring for poverty-stricken sufferers of tuberculosis on a national scale. It was the first institution of its kind in America. Its pioneering work started the intensive fight against tuberculosis, which has resulted in a decrease in the death rate from this disease to a figure that is less than half it was before the National Jewish Hospital entered the field.

With its motto, "None may enter who can pay, none can pay who enter," the National Jewish Hospital has restored hundreds upon hundreds of men, women and children to health, strength and economic independence. No patients who can afford to pay are admitted; and, although maintained largely by Jewish philanthropy, the hospital has always been non-sectarian in its service. Patients come from all parts of the country.

A special feature of the hospital's work is the service for children afflicted with active tuberculosis. "NJH Bonds" sell for a minimum of $1.00. They are being distributed in this city by Henry Joseph, chairman, assisted by the following committee: W. G. Hamilton, Geo. F. Grand-Girard, Jos. M. Lynch and E. W. Lutz.

When this blooming census is over, and everybody knows the worst, the country can get back to normal business again.

African "Monkey Bread"
Monkey bread is also known as baobab, adansonia and digitaria. It comes from Africa, and grows on trees that usually stand from 20 to 70 feet high. Monkey bread is an oblong, woody fruit, growing from 7 inches to 18 inches in length. The juice is considered to have some medicinal properties, and is used in treating tropical fever. The ashes and bark are frequently boiled in rancid oil and used as a kind of soap by the natives.

STATE GOVERNMENT EXPENSES INCREASE NEARLY 6 MILLION

COLUMBUS, O., May 22—Figures supporting the assertion that state governmental operating expenses increased $4,740,537.52 last year, compared with 1928, are contained in the annual report of State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy which was made public today. The report gives statistics for the fiscal year ending December 31, last.

It declared that expenditures from the state's general revenue funds last year aggregated $32,681,932.67, as compared to $27,941,395.15 for the preceding year. Tracy pointed out that these figures exclude highway construction and maintenance costs which, last year, totaled $24,726,148.

Tracy stated that disbursements last year by the state government for all purposes amounted to $82,759,564.33. These figures include expenditures for highways and payments from other special funds.

"The increasing demands for public service in all governmental lines entail an ever-increasing burden on the taxpayers," declared Tracy, referring to the boost in governmental expenses.

The remaining $7,560,000 of world war compensation bonds constitutes the state's only bonded debt. These bonds will be fully cancelled by October, 1932, Tracy said. The total debt of the various political subdivisions, however, aggregate $954,149,652, as follows: Cities, $464,015,242; schools, $233,875,685; counties, $169,566,123; villages, $81,215,714, and townships, $5,476,888.

Ordinary current expenses of the state government increased $25,511,207.12, last year, as against $21,285,301.07 the preceding year according to Tracy's report.

The so-called "weak" school districts, in rural counties, receive ed $4,317,124.14 last year as against $3,000,000 in 1928.

The cost of operating the administrative offices of state government last year totaled $1,166,325.14 compared with $958,050.57 in 1928, Tracy reported.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE

The last French troops of occupation leave the Rhine. The war is over.
The international bank at Basel takes charge of German reparations according to the Young plan. The foundation is laid for what may grow into a permanent, co-operative financial system among European nations.

At the same time, Briand, the most enlightened statesman of the Old World, launches his plan for a United States of Europe. In this lies the possibility of making the Old World new.

Briand's scheme is naturally compared with the United States of America. This country is admitted to have furnished him with the idea and pattern. We are great and prosperous, he says, because we are 48 sovereignties functioning as one. He wants Europe to function likewise economically, and even politically as far as possible.

He would sweep away frontiers and give industry and trade free scope. There would be no more tariff barriers, no hindrance to the free movement of goods and people. All would cooperate for the benefit of all, by some loose federal system not yet worked out.

We may thank Europe for the compliment, and wish her well.

PARTY SYMBOLS

A picture of a ballot used in an election in Santa Domingo the other day makes an entertaining study. That country, like our own, has gone in for picturesque political symbols. The emblem of one party is a lion, with various negligible trimmings. The other, which immediately catches the eye of an American, contains the bold picture of a rooster and a bull.

This, we hasten to add, is not known as a cock-and-bull party, but as the "Alianza Nacional Progresista," or as we would say the "National Progressive Alliance."

We are half as far along in pictorial politics as Santo Domingo. One of our own parties uses Chanticleer as an emblem. It might supply a national need if we had a third party, with the Bull on its escutcheon.

PARACHUTING PASSENGERS

The other day, over Roosevelt Field, N. Y., 20 men jumped from a big transport plane and made safe parachute descents. It was a demonstration of the possibility of unloading passenger planes in mid-air in case of necessity. The jumpers disembarked in 17 seconds at an altitude of 3,000 feet.

The parachute has proved its value again for pilots. It looks as if it would be as useful to air travelers as the life belt is to sea voyagers. The development of a satisfactory parachute that will bring the whole plane safely to the ground in emergency may be hoped for.

TEMPERANCE TEACHING

Quite aside from their approval of Dwight Morrow's stand on the eighteenth Amendment, many persons should take to heart this statement of his:

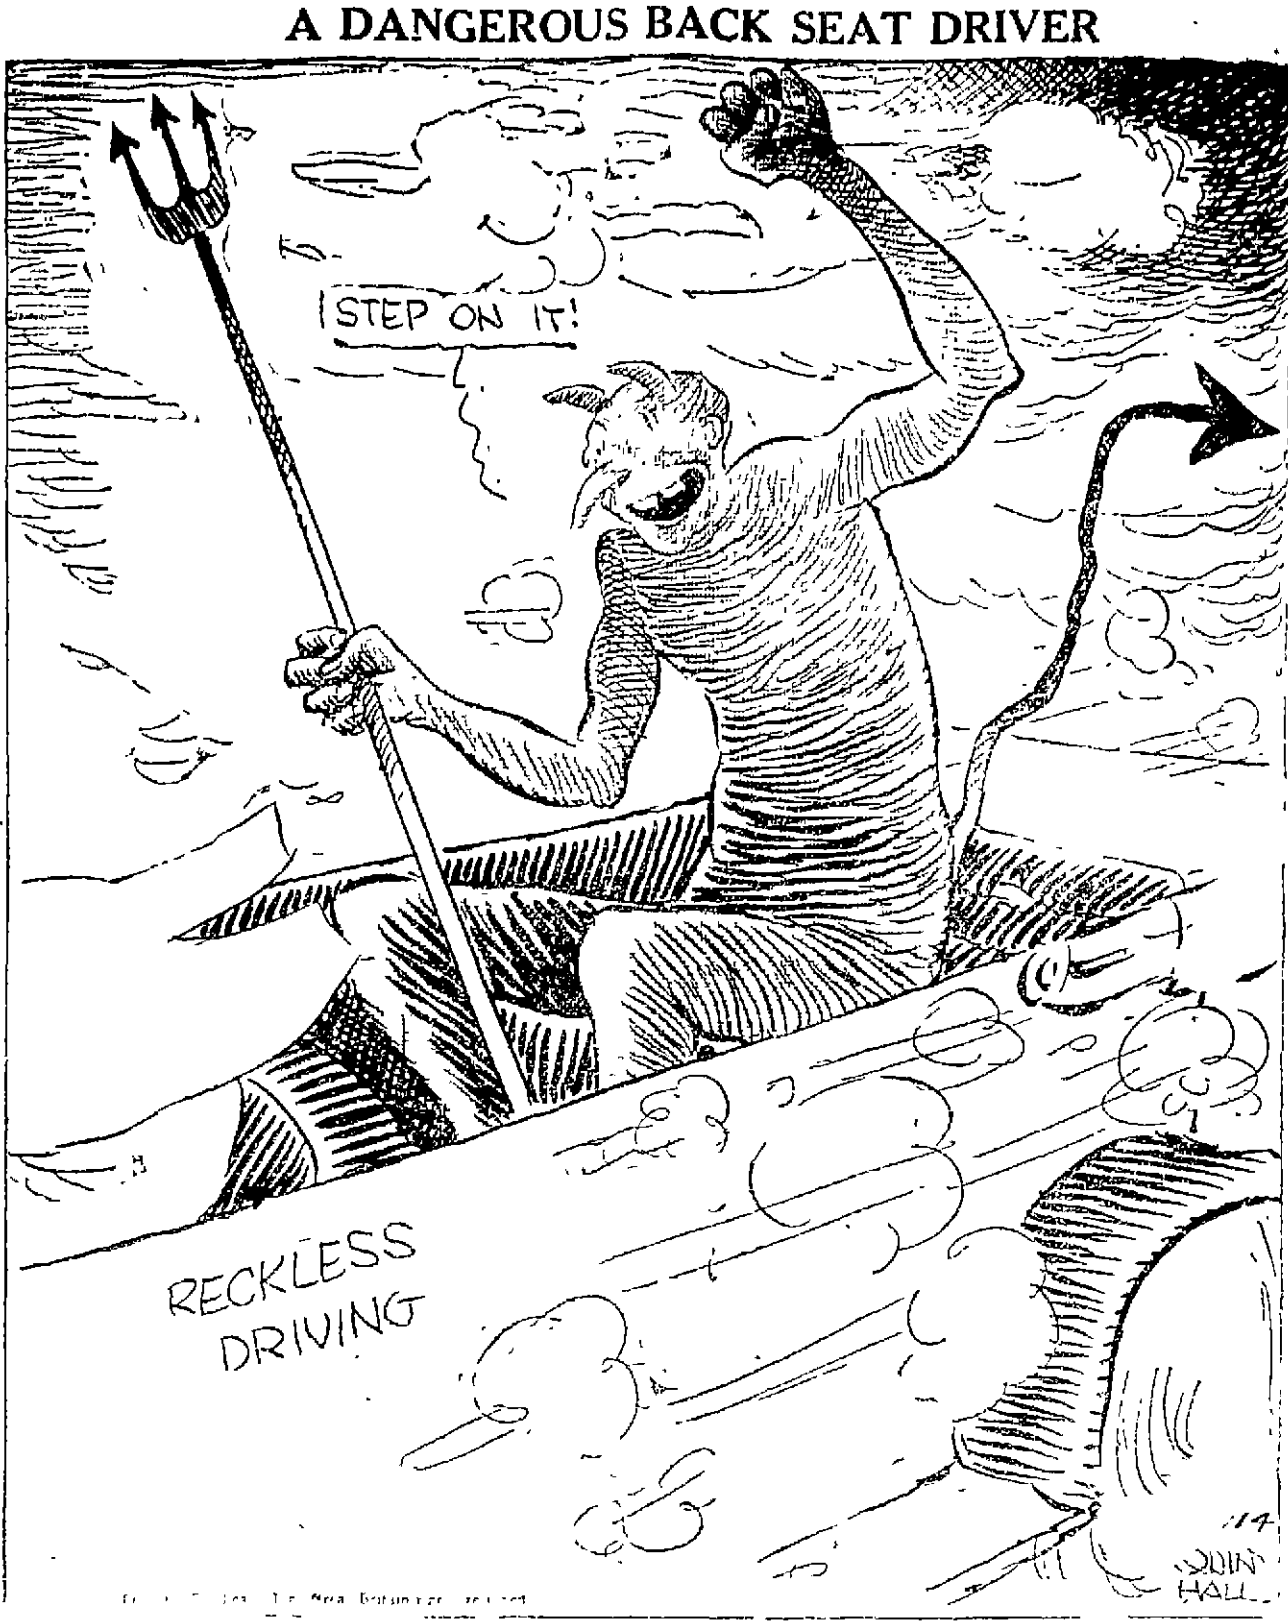

"I look forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement—the churches and the schools and the social workers—will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present Eighteenth Amendment."

It has seemed to many thoughtful persons that there was a definite and unfortunate relapse from temperance education and training at the time of the adoption and ratification of the Prohibition amendment. Emphasis switched over to law-enforcement, penalizing law-breakers, increasing police work, playing politics with prohibition, and so on. All of these things must be reckoned with, of course, but they should not take the place of honest, thoughtful, constructive temperance teachings.

BUS DRIVERS

The Illinois State department of health urges that bus drivers be required to pass just as exacting physical examination as locomotive engineers, ship captains or airplane pilots. Trains, it is pointed out, have fixed rails along which they move. Ships, except in harbor, move without the complications of congested traffic. Even airplanes have more security from the perils of mere numbers than vehicles on busy highways.

The bus driver, guiding his load swiftly along hard roads in close proximity to numerous other motorists of varying degrees of skill and judgment, has terrific responsibility for the safety of his own passengers as well as motorists he meets or passes. Various physical ailments may cause temporary vis-

"SHEIK'S WIFE"
BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XXXIX.

It was when he went into his neglected studio and began to fumble at his desk that they had a clash. The bill for the La Fleur gown was there and Eve reached for it. "I'm going to pay that, Ken."

"You're WHAT?" His words were little spears of ice dropping between tight, straightened lips. "It was extravagant—a frightful price—and it's only fair for me to pay the bill. The dress was a business investment; no reason why you should take it on."

"Get this, Eve," he spoke slowly, still in the frozen way. "I'll finance the running of my home including my wife's clothes without any woman's help. That stands for now and always. It is all quite clear?"

"But, Ken—"

"The matter is closed."

"Very well." Cut to the heart out with small waves of anger rushing over her, breaking at her throat and forehead, Eve carelessly picked up the stack of unopened bills piled at the end of the desk. "Since you've taken that stand," she said evenly, "There are a few things for your attention." She put the stack before him, turned and left the room.

Presently she heard him answer the telephone—heard him go out and start the car, heading in the direction of Spring Garden.

In a still loneliness Eve sat and stared at nothing, hands resting in her lap palms upward, empty and idle. "Ken had gone back to his siren, Puss Southwick—ah, little liar and cheat that she was!—had called and Ken had gone. And Eve felt that it was the end of the world—end of everything."

Her plan, the magnificent gesture which was to show the cheap little adventuress for what she was had failed. It had failed because in hitting Puss it also had hit Ken; his pride was shattered, all torn to shreds. Not even the laughing little way in which she had included Ken in her authorship had saved him that. Her dearest pal and severest critic—it deceived others but he would have none of it. A hard thing, life; a tragic thing to see as she did, feel it impossible to hold the one beloved.

Transcending her eyes, ran down her cheeks, splashed on her tired hands. Everything over—oh, what a pretentious! Might as well let Ken go—do this for him at least; let him have the freedom that would bring him happiness. She loved him enough for this. Ken did not want Puss really but if he thought he did she would step out of the way.

She owed herself something, too. She would rearrange her life. She could move into Stang-will, see what might be done with it. Find peace there if not happiness.

Now that she had arrived at this mood of high sacrifice it seemed important that everything be settled at once. It seemed necessary that she tell Ken he was free, let him make what plans he wished.

Still it was slowly, reluctantly that she walked out to the road-way and started for Nory's, a forlorn little figure in a white dress, where a little ghost moving through the sweet Summer night. Honey-suckle sent its fragrance all about her; birds twittered in shadowy branches; it was a night made for love, for soft whispers, caresses.

the party, no doubt; probably Ken was there also. Well, Eve would wait. Plenty of time for this—she would have a great deal of idle time now. Time, filled with memories, with vain regrets.

The narrow veranda was dark behind a heavy screen of vines and she went to a far corner where a little nook was formed at the side of the house and sat on a chair she found there. And once again tears crept down her face and splashed on her idle hands.

It was only a few minutes later every single day if you want to keep in good health. Summer time is a time when the

"Get this—I'll finance the running of my home without any woman's help."

And she was alone, heavy of heart and alone.

Nory was not at home, but his old car stood outside. Eve left a note, telling him she had borrowed "Opportunity" and managed to start the sputtering engine.

The drive which had taken so long the night of the storm seemed all too short now. She passed a cottage—later she learned it was the one where Ned Person lived with two other young fellows—which was brightly lit.

A party in progress here for sounds of revelry came forth; someone banging a piano, and men's voices raised in song.

The cottage where Puss lived was dark and no car answered. Eve knocked though again, and windows stood open. Puss was at stopped with a squeal of brakes. Even before the horn played its four notes, "Too-oo-too-oo!" Eve knew it was Ken—knew that he was impatient for he kept racing the engine, fingering the horn.

Puss came swiftly, running from the direction of the party and Eve got up, peered through the vines. Puss stopped beside the car; she was urging Ken to come in but he demurred.

"Too late to stop, Kid. Got to go to work tomorrow; stuffs all behind. What you want to see me about?"

Water---Inside and Out
Means Good Health, Says Dr. Copeland

Drink Your Quota of Six Glasses Daily and Make Bathing a Ritual, Urges Authority, but Be on Guard Against Contaminated Waters.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TOO few people realize the importance of drinking plenty of water. This is very much a matter of habit, and it is an exceedingly good habit to acquire. It is so simple that we forget it and overlook it.

Probably the most common trouble of mankind today is constipation. The intestines need flushing out with water taken as a daily beverage and they cannot work properly without it.

Water is the most important substance of the body. The weight of the body is made up of seven-tenths water. That is, if you weigh one hundred pounds, seventy pounds of that weight is water.

Water is the basis of every fluid in the body, as well as being a part of all the tissues. Water in the form of perspiration is being given off from the body at all times. In the blood and gastric juices it acts still further to supply body needs.

You can see for yourself that we need a great intake of water every day. If you don't consume enough, something unpleasant is bound to happen.

An adult needs to drink as much as six glasses of water every day, and a child a little less. Some of it, of course, is taken in other drinks of various kinds and in foods, but an adequate supply cannot be gotten in this manner. You just have to drink a certain amount of clear water every single day if you want to keep in good health.

Summer time is a time when the most of us are nomads—that is, we are on the "go" somewhere or other much of the time. People are vacationing everywhere. There is lots of mischief done by drinking impure water during these Summer days. On a hot day thirst overcomes us in the most unexpected places. The boy or girl on a hike through the country, or in woody places, drinks at the first drinking place, not questioning whether the water is pure or not.

Every Autumn at the end of the vacation season single cases or epidemics of typhoid fever appear in various places. Invariably these originated in some rural places where careless persons drank of contaminated water.

You cannot trust to the appearance of water in strange places, even though it appears to be crystal clear. It may contain deadly germs from unknown sources. Don't drink at the first spring you come across. Be sure the water is pure and free from contamination. Children should be taught this and have drilled into them the dangers of drinking from unknown waters.

If you want your child to have sparkling eyes, rosy cheeks and radiant health, teach him to form the habit of drinking water freely every day. He cannot form this habit too young. Fresh air, water, good food, exercise are needful adjuncts to good health.

The extent to which you drink water and eat fruits and vegetables will have its direct bearing on that important daily elimination of bodily wastes, without which health cannot be maintained. It is so important that you drink plenty of water, and it is so simple, that there is really no excuse for not making it a fixed habit and living up to it to the full extent of your power.

Make it a point to have good health. You owe it to yourself and to those around you. You cannot have good health without obeying the laws of health. Plenty of water inside and out is cleansing and life giving.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE

The last French troops of occupation leave the Rhine. The war is over.

The international bank at Basel takes charge of German reparations according to the Young plan. The foundation is laid for what may grow into a permanent, co-operative financial system among European nations.

At the same time, Briand, the most enlightened statesman of the Old World, launches his plan for a United States of Europe. In this lies the possibility of making the Old World new.

Briand's scheme is naturally compared with the United States of America. This country is admitted to have furnished him with the idea and pattern. We are great and prosperous, he says, because we are 48 sovereignties functioning as one. He wants Europe to function likewise economically, and even politically as far as possible.

He would sweep away frontiers and give industry and trade free scope. There would be no more tariff barriers, no hindrance to the free movement of goods and people. All would cooperate for the benefit of all, by some loose federal system not yet worked out.

We may thank Europe for the compliment, and wish her well.

PARTY SYMBOLS

A picture of a ballot used in an election in Santa Domingo the other day makes an entertaining study. That country, like our own, has gone in for picturesque political symbols. The emblem of one party is a lion, with various negligible trimmings. The other, which immediately catches the eye of an American, contains the bold picture of a rooster and a bull.

This, we hasten to add, is not known as a cock-and-bull party, but the "Alianza Nacional Progresista," or as we would say the "National Progressive Alliance."

We are half as far along in pictorial politics as Santo Domingo. One of our own parties uses Chanticleer as an emblem. It might supply a national need if we had a third party, with the Bull on its escutcheon.

PARACHUTING PASSENGERS

The other day, over Roosevelt Field, N. Y., 20 men jumped from a big transport plane and made safe parachute descents. It was a demonstration of the possibility of unloading passenger planes in mid-air in case of necessity. The jumpers disembarked in 17 seconds at an altitude of 3,000 feet.

The parachute has proved its value again for pilots. It looks as if it would be as useful to air travelers as the life belt is to sea voyagers. The development of a satisfactory parachute that will bring the whole plane safely to the ground in emergency may be hoped for.

TEMPERANCE TEACHING

Quite aside from their approval of Dwight Morrow's stand on the eighteenth Amendment, many persons should take to heart this statement of his:

"I look forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement—the churches and the schools and the social workers—will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present Eighteenth Amendment."

It has seemed to many thoughtful persons that there was a definite and unfortunate relapse from temperance education and training at the time of the adoption and ratification of the Prohibition amendment. Emphasis switched over to law-enforcement, penalizing law-breakers, increasing police work, playing politics with prohibition, and so on. All of these things must be reckoned with, of course, but they should not take the place of honest, thoughtful, constructive temperance teachings.

BUS DRIVERS

The Illinois State department of health urges that bus drivers be required to pass just as exacting physical examination as locomotive engineers, ship captains or airplane pilots. Trains, it is pointed out, have fixed rails along which they move. Ships, except in harbor, move without the complications of congested traffic. Even airplanes have more security from the perils of mere numbers than vehicles on busy highways.

The bus driver, guiding his load swiftly along hard roads in close proximity to numerous other motorists of varying degrees of skill and judgment, has terrific responsibility for the safety of his own passengers as well as motorists he meets or passes. Various physical ailments may cause temporary vis-

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XXXIX.

It was when he went into his neglected studio and began to fumble at his desk that they had a clash. The bill for the La Fleur gown was there and Eve reached for it. "I'm going to pay that, Ken."

"You're WHAT?" His words were little spears of ice dropping between tight, straightened lips. "It was extravagant—a frightful price—and it's only fair for me to pay the bill. The dress was a business investment; no reason why you should take it on."

"Get this, Eve." He spoke slowly, still in the frozen way. "I'll finance the running of my home including my wife's clothes without any woman's help. That stands for now and always. It is all quite clear?"

"But, Ken—"

"The matter is closed."

"Very well." Cut to the heart but with small waves of anger rushing over her, breaking at her throat and forehead, Eve carelessly picked up the stack of unopened bills piled at the end of the desk. "Since you've taken that stand," she said evenly, "There are a few things for your attention." She put the stack before him, turned and left the room.

Presently she heard him answer the telephone—heard him go out and start the car, heading in the direction of Spring Garden.

In a still loneliness Eve sat and stared at nothing, hands resting in her lap palms upward, empty and idle. "Ken had gone back to his siren. Puss Southwick—ah, little liar and cheat that she was!—had called and Ken had gone. And Eve felt that it was the end of the world—end of everything."

Her plan, the magnificent gesture which was to show the cheap little adventuress for what she was had failed. It had failed because in hitting Puss it also had hit Ken; his pride was shattered, all torn to shreds. Not even the laughing little way in which she had included Ken in her authorship had saved him that. Her dearest pal and severest critic—it deceived others but he would have none of it. A bad thing, life; a tragic thing to love as she did, feel it impossible to hold the one beloved.

Tears stung her eyes, ran down her cheeks, splashed on her tired hands. Everything over—oh, what she was pretending? Might as well let Ken go—do this for him at least; let him have the freedom that would bring him happiness. She loved him enough for this. Ken did not want Puss really but if he thought he did she would step out of the way.

She owed herself something, too. She would re-arrange her life. She could move into Stony-wall, see what might be done with writing. Find peace there if not happiness.

Now that she had arrived at this mood of high sacrifice it seemed important that everything be settled at once. It seemed necessary that she tell Ken he was free, let him make what plans he wished.

Still it was slowly, reluctantly that she walked out to the roadway and started for Nory's, a forlorn little figure in a white dress, a sad little ghost moving through the sweet Summer night. Honey-suckle sent its fragrance all about her; birds twittered in shadowy branches; it was a night made for love, for soft whispers, caresses.

the party, no doubt; probably Ken was there also. Well, Eve would wait. Plenty of time for this—she would have a great deal of idle time now. Time filled with memories, with vain regret.

The narrow veranda was dark behind a heavy screen of vines and she went to a far corner where a little nook was formed at the side of the house and sat on a chair she found there. And once again tears crept down her face and splashed on her idle hands.

It was only a few minutes later that a car tore along the street,

And she was alone, heavy of heart and alone.

Nory was not at home, but his old car stood outside. Eve left a note, telling him she had borrowed "Opportunity" and managed to start the sputtering engine.

The drive which had taken so long the night of the storm seemed all too short now. She passed a cottage—later she learned it was the one where Niel Pierson lived with two other young fellows—which was brightly lighted. A party in progress here for sounds of revelry came forth; someone banging a piano, girl's and men's voices raised in song.

The cottage where Puss lived was dark and no one answered Eve's knock though doors and windows stood open. Puss was at

Water---Inside and Out

Means Good Health, Says Dr. Copeland

Drink Your Quota of Six Glasses Daily and Make Bathing a Ritual, Urges Authority, but Be on Guard Against Contaminated Waters.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Too few people realize the importance of drinking plenty of water. This is very much a matter of habit, and it is an exceedingly good habit to acquire. It is so simple that we forget it and overlook it.

Probably the most common trouble of mankind today is constipation. The intestines need flushing out with water taken as a daily beverage and they cannot work properly without it. Water is the most important substance of the body. The weight of the body is made up of seven-tenths water. That is, if you weigh one hundred pounds, seventy pounds of that weight is water.

Water is the basis of every fluid in the body, as well as being a part of all the tissues. Water in the form of perspiration is being given off from the body at all times. In the blood and gastric juices it acts still further to supply body needs. You can see for yourself that we need a great intake of water every day. If you don't consume enough, something unpleasant is bound to happen.

An adult needs to drink as much as six glassfuls of water every day, and a child a little less. Some of it, of course, is taken in other drinks of various kinds and in foods, but an adequate supply cannot be gotten in this manner. You just have to drink a certain amount of clear water every single day if you want to keep in good health.

Summertime is a time when the most of us are nomads—that is, we are on the "go" somewhere or other much of the time. People are vacationing everywhere. There is lots of mischief done by drinking impure water during these Summer days. On a hot day thirst overcomes us in the most unexpected places. The boy or girl on a hike through the country, or in woody places, drinks at the first drinking place, not questioning whether the water is pure or not.

Every Autumn at the end of the vacation season single cases of epidemics of typhoid fever appear in various places. Invariably these originated in some rural places where careless persons drank of contaminated water. You cannot trust to the appearance of water in strange places, even though it appears to be crystal clear. It may contain deadly germs from unknown sources. Don't drink at the first spring you come across. Be sure the water is pure and free from contamination. Children should be taught this and have drilled into them the dangers of drinking from unknown waters.

If you want your child to have sparkling eyes, rosy cheeks and radiant health, teach him to form the habit of drinking water freely every day. He cannot form this habit too young. Fresh air, water, good food, exercise are needful adjuncts to good health.

The extent to which you drink water and eat fruits and vegetables will have its direct bearing on that important daily elimination of bodily wastes, without which health cannot be maintained. It is so important that you drink plenty of water, and it is so simple, that there is really no excuse for not making it a fixed habit and living up to it to the full extent of your power.

Make it a point to have good health. You owe it to yourself and to those around you. You cannot have good health without obeying the laws of health. Plenty of water inside and out is cleansing and life giving.

JOSEPH'S

109-111 WEST MAIN STREET

COUNTY FIFTH IN CO-OP SALE

Farmers of Ohio marketed in excess of 11,000,000 pounds of live stock through their local co-operative marketing organizations during April, the Ohio Live Stock Co-operative Association has announced. Only in 1923, 1924, and 1929 has the volume for April reached this level.

Included in the 823 carloads shipped there was live stock from 8,265 farmers, which brought them $1,118,210. The number of cattle, calves and sheep advanced over shipments a year ago as much as 50 per cent in the case of sheep. However, because of a lower hog population and the poor feeding quality of corn, the number of hogs shipped suffered a decrease of some 14 per cent, it was explained. The month's shipments consisted of 35,135 hogs, 2,904 cattle, 5,552 calves and 18,892 sheep. The five leading counties were Franklin, Fayette, Putnam, Pickaway and Logan.

During the month the co-operative terminal market organizations at the markets receiving Ohio stock showed advances in volume. At Pittsburgh 41.1 per cent of the receipts of the market were co-operative, a record for all time for that market. The Cincinnati organization marketed 31.6 per cent of the receipts of that market. The Buffalo organization marketed 31.08 per cent of the receipts of that market. The

Cleveland organization marketed 21.31 per cent of the receipts of that market. At the Columbus area market 143 carloads of stock were sold—the record for that market where all of the receipts are co-operative.

Members of the Pickaway live stock association marketed 37 carloads which brought them $69,078 according to the report of Harry Briggs, manager. Pickaway-co ranked fifth in the state for the month.

COUNTY FIFTH IN CO-OP SALE

Farmers of Ohio marketed in excess of 11,000,000 pounds of live stock through their local co-operative marketing organizations during April, the Ohio Live Stock Co-operative Association has announced. Only in 1923, 1924,

and 1929 has the volume for April reached this level.

Included in the 823 carloads shipped there was live stock from 8,265 farmers, which brought them $1,118,210. The number of cattle, calves and sheep advanced over shipments a year ago as much as 50 per cent in the case of sheep. However, because of a lower hog population and the poor feeding quality of corn, the number of hogs shipped suffered a decrease of some 14 per cent. It was explained. The month's shipments consisted of 35,135 hogs, 2,904 cattle, 5,552 calves and 18,692 sheep. The five leading counties were Franklin, Fayette, Putnam, Pickaway and Logan.

During the month the co-operative terminal market organizations at the markets receiving Ohio stock showed advances in volume. At Pittsburgh 41.1 per cent of the receipts of the market were co-operative, a record for all time for that market. The Cincinnati organization marketed 31.6 per cent of the receipts of that market. The Buffalo organization marketed 31.08 per cent of the receipts of that market. The

Cleveland organization marketed 21.31 per cent of the receipts of that market. At the Columbus area market 143 carloads of stock were sold—the record for that market where all of the receipts are co-operative.

Members of the Pickaway live stock association marketed 37 carloads which brought them $69,078 according to the report of Harry Briggs, manager. Pickaway-co ranked fifth in the state for the month.

GROCERS GIVE COCA COLAS GREAT BATTLE, LOSE 7 TO 6

Frank Lynch's Coca Colas, un-Heeter, cf. 5 1 0 0 defeated in six starts, almost lost their first ball game of the season at Utilities field Wednesday evening when the Independent Grocers showed real strength and a fighting spirit that almost broke the streak of the bottlers. The score was 7-6.

A play which aroused a lot of argument occurred for the final out of the game when Clarke Stevens, Grocer third sacker, drove a line drive at Cuz Dumm, playing third for the Cokes. There were runners on second and third base.
 The ball hit Dumm in the chest, he caught it with both hands and he to the ground. The arbiters ruled the catch legal and the game ended but the Grocers protested long and loud that the catch was an "illegal" one. Inasmuch as there is no rule in the local league book which prohibits trapping a ball against the body it seems that Dumm's catch was good.

The game was a hectic one and was featured by many arguments over umpires' decisions.

The Cokes scored their runs in the first, second and third innings, and the Grocers the fourth, fifth and seventh.

Frank Lynch was on the mound for the bottlers and hurled good ball across the plate, as did Ray Smith for the Grocers.

Lynch allowed two bases on balls and had three strike-outs, while Smith had four walks with only one strike-out.

Sherd Boyer and Forrest Valentine umpired.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio
 May 22, 1930.

Sports Editor
 Circleville Herald

Dear Sir:

Whether or not the powers that be of your Recreation League desire criticisms from the out side
 I don't know, but, after witnessing the game played between the Coco Cola's and the Independent Grocers Wednesday night I am one spectator who can't keep silent.

While I have not witnessed many of the games played so far this season, I have noticed a decided antipathy toward the Coco-Cola team. This is an unnatural attitude of fans toward a winning team if every thing is on the up and up, so I made it my business to see the above mentioned game to find out for myself what was wrong. I found out. And do not hesitate in saying that if all officials of the league are as partial to the Cokes as were the officials that worked this game the followers of the game have just cause for their antagonistic attitude toward the Cokes.

I have been a follower of sports for years. I enjoy nothing better than to see a good clean game of any type of athletics, but I came away from Wednesday night's Coke-Grocer game thoroughly disgusted with your league.

Any official will err, none are infallible, but in my opinion the terrible decisions rendered in this game were such drastic misjudgments that I can arrive at but one conclusion. They were deliberately partial to the winning team. And from the sideline comment of the fans, this condition has existed throughout the present season.

If the Coke's desire to win games by this method there is but one conclusion you can arrive at.
 They are poor sports. Otherwise their management should take steps to adjust the situation either by instructing the present officials to render decisions justly or endeavor to secure new officials who would be unbiased.

By winning games this way, the Cokes do the losing team no harm.
 It just brings to them more ardent supporters, filling the minds of fans with a disgust for the Coke's for wanting to maintain the league leadership by such methods.
 If this condition continues I fear for your league. Teams will tire finally of such unjust treatment and ere long the Coke's will be the only team in the league.

Fans will lose interest and abandon your fields of sport, and it seems to me that the powers that be would see the hand writing on the wall.

It isn't only the losing team that is suffering but your entire league is suffering from this apparent partiality of officials toward the Coco Cola club.

It is true the Cokes have a good team and should not be winning games this way but after witnessing last night's game and hearing the sideline criticisms I don't think they are quite as good as their league standing indicates.

An unbiased spectator.

FORESTER PLAY POOR BALL TO LOSE TO GORDON OUTFIT

Playing the poorest game they have engaged in thus far in the recreation league the much-abused Modern Woodmen dropped another game Wednesday to the highly touted Gordon Tires by a score of 12 to 5. The game was played at Mason's.

The first inning showed promise of being a good game when both teams chalked up a run, but after that it was just too bad, for in the next time at bat the Gordons scored five to the two scored by the Foresters.

Then again in the fifth frame the Tire aggregation scored another trio of runs to the credit side of the ledger while the Woodmen were held to one run.

In the sixth, eighth and ninth the Tiremen succeeded in scoring one run each frame while the Woodmen were held to another lonely run and that was scored on Steele's violation of Rule 51 when he caught a fly ball in his cap during the last of the ninth inning.

All in all the game was a poorly played affair by both teams.

GROCCERS GIVE COCA COLAS GREAT BATTLE, LOSE 7 TO 6

Frank Lynch's Coca Colas, un-defeated in six starts, almost lost their first ball game of the season at Utilities field Wednesday evening when the Independent Grocers showed real strength and a fighting spirit that almost broke the streak of the bottlers. The score was 7-6.

A play which aroused a lot of argument occurred for the final out of the game when Clarke Stevens, Grocer third sacker, drove a line drive at Cuz Dumm, playing third for the Cokes. There were runners on second and third base. The ball hit Dumm in the chest, he caught it with both hands and fell to the ground. The arbiters ruled the catch legal and the game ended but the Grocers protested long and loud that the catch was an illegal one. Inasmuch as there is no rule in the local league book which prohibits trapping a ball against the body it seems that Dumm's catch was good.

The game was a hectic one and was featured by many arguments over umpires' decisions.

The Cokes scored their runs in the first, second and third innings, and the Grocers the fourth, fifth and seventh.

Frank Lynch was on the mound for the bottlers and hurled good ball across the plate, as did Ray Smith for the Grocers.

Lynch allowed two bases on balls and had three strike-outs, while Smith had four walks with only one strike-out.

Sherd Boyer and Forrest Valentine umpired.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio
May 22, 1930.

Sports Editor
Circleville Herald

Dear Sir:

Whether or not the powers that be of your Recreation League desire criticisms from the out side I don't know, but, after witnessing the game played between the Coca Cola's and the Independent Grocers Wednesday night I am one spectator who can't keep silent.

While I have not witnessed many of the games played so far this season, I have noticed a decided antipathy toward the Coca-Cola team. This is an unnatural attitude of fans toward a winning team if every thing is on the up and up, so I made it my business to see the above mentioned game to find out for myself what was wrong. I found out. And do not hesitate in saying that if all officials of the league are as partial to the Cokes as were the officials that worked this game the followers of the game have just cause for their antagonistic attitude toward the Cokes.

I have been a follower of sports for years. I enjoy nothing better than to see a good clean game of any type of athletics, but I came away from Wednesday night's Coke-Grocer game thoroughly disgusted with your league.

Any official will err, none are infallible, but in my opinion the terrible decisions rendered in this game were such drastic misjudgments that I can arrive at but one conclusion. They were deliberately partial to the winning team. And from the sideline comment of the fans, this condition has existed throughout the present season.

If the Coke's desire to win games by this method there is but one conclusion you can arrive at. They are poor sports. Otherwise their management should take steps to adjust the situation either by instructing the present officials to render decisions justly or endeavor to secure new officials who would be unbiased.

er by instructing the present officials to render decisions justly or endeavor to secure new officials who would be unbiased.

By winning games this way, the Cokes do the losing team no harm. It just brings to them more ardent supporters, filling the minds of fans with a disgust for the Cokes for wanting to maintain the league leadership by such methods.

If this condition continues I fear for your league. Teams will tire finally of such unjust treatment and ere long the Coke's will be the only team in the league.

Fans will lose interest and abandon your fields of sport, and it seems to me that the powers that be would see the hand writing on the wall.

It isn't only the losing team that is suffering but your entire league is suffering from this apparent partiality of officials toward the Coca Cola club.

It is true the Cokes have a good team and should not be winning games this way but after witnessing last night's game and hearing the sideline criticisms I don't think they are quite as good as their league standing indicates.

An unbiased spectator.

FORESTER PLAY POOR BALL TO LOSE TO GORDON OUTFIT

Playing the poorest game they have engaged in thus far in the recreation league the much-abused Modern Woodmen dropped another game Wednesday to the highly touted Gordon Tires by a score of 12 to 5. The game was played at Mason's.

The first inning showed promise of being a good game when both teams chalked up a run, but after that it was just too bad, for in the next time at bat the Gordons scored five to the two scored by the Foresters.

Then again in the fifth frame the Tire aggregation scored another trio of runs to the credit side of the ledger while the Woodmen were held to one run.

In the sixth, eighth and ninth the Tiremen succeeded in scoring one run each frame while the Woodmen were held to another lonely run and that was scored on Steele's violation of Rule 51 when he caught a fly ball in his cap during the last of the ninth inning.

All in all the game was a poorly played affair by both teams.

PETTIT-SINCLAIR'S

MEET CONTAINERS

The Pettit-Sinclair recreation team will play the C. C. of A. at the Utilities field Thursday evening instead of Doggy Ward's nine.

The Wardmen were originally scheduled to play the C. C. of A. but with night school taking four players and an inter-city Kiwanis meeting in Chillicothe taking three more, the Pettit-Sinclair's agreed to play their game this evening.

The Wards will play the C. C. of A. Friday evening.

L. C. Odaffer, who has been a patient at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, has been removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rader on S. Washington street.

SMILING floors and cheery furniture are merely a matter of surface appearance. Your floors, if they are properly refinished, will look just as nice as the floors in a new house and your furniture, under similar treatment, will rival the pieces in the furniture store windows.

The change is very easy to accomplish with LOWE BROTHERS NEPTUNITE VARNISH STAIN for it stains and varnishes at one stroke of the brush. It colors all of the cuts, scratches and marks making the surface uniform and it brings out the beauty of the wood grain.

Neptunite Varnish Stain is very easy to use. It stains and varnishes at the same time and it comes in a variety of pleasing colors.

Color in the Sea

The most beautiful of tropical sea-folk is the moonfish, often called the ghostfish because of its paper thin form of a silver color. The angelfish is as gayly colored as the rainbow and with trailing fins of contrasting tints. The squirrelfish flaunts a deep coral shade and great dark eyes. The parrotfish attracts attention as much by its gorgeous colorings of turquoise blue, plum, purple or bright green as by the peculiar bony beak.

Miss Nellie Morris is a member of the Junior class and Forest Morris, a Senior.

The Senior Class colors Blue and Gold predominated in the decorative color scheme. Watergardens of Iris, yellow Roses and lemon lilies suggested the colors. Blue and gold crepe streamers added a festive look to the rooms.

From the earliest moment utmost gaiety increased with each course of the delicious dinner and throughout the evening of games and music. The Juniors who are responsible for the delightful arrangement and the successful carrying out of plans were Miss Nellie Morris, Miss Ruby Farmer, Miss Lavoo Goff and Charles Duvall.

JOSEPHINE PETERS IS COMPLEMENTED

Miss Josephine Peters of N. Court-st whose marriage to Mr. Harold J. Bowers will take place June 12, was complimented Wednesday at a bridge-luncheon and handkerchief shower at the Broad-Lincoln, Columbus, for 16 guests.
